

WORTH LOOKING X INTO

NOV. 5, 1999

To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing this on behalf of the chickens being tortured by forced molting. I am completely appalled that this practice is going on when studies have shown increases of salmonella among hens. After getting salmonella poisoning several years ago I swore never to eat another animal including eggs. I urge you to eliminate the practice of forced molting & that you do more than put warning labels on the egg cartons & regulate egg refrigeration temperatures. Please do what is right & necessary to not torture these poor birds as they are producing some people with food that they are expecting to be edible.

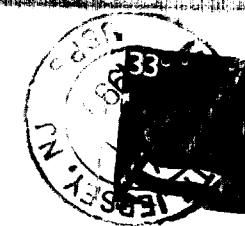

Sincerely,
M. K. Alvarado
